

Terms and conditions of use

When using the Secure Data Exchange platform for protected data exchange, the following conditions of use are to be complied with:

1. Each subscription entitles the subscriber to register a certain number of users, and a certain number of transfers or to registered users or to one or several unregistered users.
2. Registered users are entitled to share with the Data EXchange files with unregistered users. Sender email-id or domain must exist in whitelist.
3. Statutory regulations and in particular the copyright law URG (federal copyright law and related trade mark rights) and the data protection act DSG (federal law concerning data protection) may not be infringed during data transfer.
4. It is prohibited with this platform to distribute data with prosecutable relevance, such as representations of violence, pornography and racial discrimination, as well as data which are likely to affront people's dignity.
5. It is prohibited to place on the platform actions that endanger operational safety. In particular, it is prohibited to conduct denial of service or hacking, or use of any such action on the platform.
6. The Digital Archiving Solutions AG and the Tecnostore Group disclaim any liability in connection with the Data Exchange Platform, especially if the liability claims improper operation, improper actions of third parties, or misuse by users of developed platform.

The Data Exchange platform is operated and developed by The Digital Archiving Solutions AG. The Digital Archiving Solutions is a member of the Tecnostore Group.

These terms and conditions apply without any restriction, and may be replaced by a new version with or without prior information.
